

students

Zhavian Green
Summit, MS
Aiden Greer
Bogue Chitto, MS
Andrew Griffin
McComb, MS
Jordan Griffin
Summit, MS
David Gunther
Bogue Chitto, MS

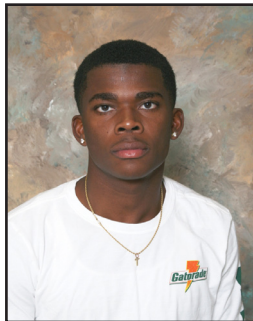

Shelby Gurney
Liberty, MS
La'Garrett Hamilton
Tylertown, MS
Elizabeth Hanson
Summit, MS
Holland Harkins
McComb, MS
Abigail Harper
McComb, MS

Owen Harper
Lumberton, MS
Jehdiel Harrel
Tylertown, MS
Sakidra Harrell
Tylertown, MS
Keivonte Harriel
Summit, MS
Chloe Harris
Meadville, MS

Denijay Harris
Columbus, MS
Paul Harris
McComb, MS
Zantavous Hartfield
McClain, MS
Rebekah Haskell
McComb, MS
Hayden Havard
Hattiesburg, MS

James Havard
Gloster, MS
Lucas Hawkins
Tylorsville, MS
Shanayah Hayes
Osyka, MS
Jake Haygood
Liberty, MS
Alexandria Haynes
McComb, MS

Jasmine Haynes
McComb, MS
Shaylee Hedgepeth
Bogue Chitto, MS
Jessica Helton
Tylertown, MS
Ashtin Henderson
Magnolia, MS
Cullin Hendry
Woodville, MS

aimee dilworth

Aimee Dilworth, daughter of Norman and Violet Dilworth, was a business major and a member of the women's soccer team. As an international student, she was originally from Edinburg, Scotland and attended high school at Lasswade High School. Beginning when she was eight, Dilworth played soccer for ten years and began to truly take it serious when she was around thirteen years old. It wasn't long before her passion for the sport would take her around the world.

An agency in Edinburg brought Aimee from Scotland to Mississippi. The agency allowed the aspiring athletes to submit videos of themselves playing soccer to coaches at potential colleges. Lucky for Aimee, she was chosen to play for the Lady Bears. Dilworth described soccer as a form of stress relief from life, and playing always brought up childhood memories for her. "It is what it is," she said. "Soccer makes me feel free."

Attending college in southern Mississippi was a bit of a culture shock for Aimee. She claimed that the people of the south were quite nice and polite, and the town of Summit was much smaller than what she was used to. Back home, Aimee's favorite activities to do were to go out to eat and see movies at the cinema.

When asked about Southwest, Dilworth said that one of her favorite things was how nice the instructors on campus were. Compared to her teachers back home, the instructors at Southwest proved to be much more polite and understanding.

Aimee's favorite American food was fried chicken, and a few of her hobbies included working out at the gym, listening to music, and watching movies.

by Madison VanNess

“
Southwest was a good start for the future.
 - Aimee Dilworth”